"DIPS" WORK AT COUNTY FAIR

Activity of Pickpockets Will Result in Extra Caution on Part of Fair Ground Police.

WILL WATCH FOR THEM HERE

Rush County Farmer is Relieved of
His "Wad" at Newcastle—
Arrest is Made.

A gang of "dips" is working the county fairs in this section of Indiana this season, and this revelation which has been made by the arrest of alleged pickpockets at the Newcastle and Frankfort fairs will result in the police authorities of the Rush County Fair Association taking extra caution to avoid a recurrence of the incidents at Newcastle and Frankfort.

At Newcastle yesterday Max Friedman of Chicago was arrested. He was believed to be one of the gang of three which picked the pocket of John Knotts, a Rush county farmer, and snatched the purse of a woman whose name was not learned.

At Frankfort A. W. Sanders was arrested on a car on the charge of robbing a passenger of thirty dollars. J. W. Downey was held on suspicion and $120 was found in his pocket. Jacob Bollhofer was arrested for the theft of sixty dollars and $41 was found in his possession.

The work of the "dips" at the Henry county fair at Newcastle is described in part in the Newcastle Courier as follows:

The gang of "dips" was composed of three men, who operated in the crowd at the floral hall. They succeeded at first picking the pocket of John Knotts, a Rush county farmer, who was standing in a crowd near the floral hall. The three men caught Knotts in a jam and relieved him of his pocketbook, which was in his hip pocket. It contained $14.75.

A few minutes later a woman lost her purse containing a small amount of money and her watch. It was snatched from her hand in the floral hall by one of the sharpers, who ran from the building. The purse snatching was seen by George Cain, chief of the fair ground police and he gave chase. The thief made his escape, but was later rounded up by Cain and the Pennsylvania operatives. He was brought to the city and placed in jail.

When arrested the suspect gave his name as William Lewis and said that he was employed by H. A. Frangberg & Co. of Chicago. Chief of Police Bouslog telegraphed the Chicago firm regarding the suspected pick-pocket and received the reply that the firm did not employ him and did not know him.

'DIED' IN MIDDLE OF RIVER

Elmer Caldwell's Machine Had to be Pulled Out.

Elmer Caldwell and a party from this city, while on the way to Greenfield yesterday in Mr. Caldwell's automobile encountered a creek which was too much for the machine to ford and as a result the engine "died" and they had to be pulled out. The water was deeper than they estimated and when in the center of the stream, the water filled the carburetor, killing the engine. The party had to wait until a team could be secured and the machine was pulled on into Greenfield. The "accident" occurred between Morristown and Greenfield.

ARLINGTON PASTOR NAMED

Rev. Jacob Hester Elected Conference Evangelist of W. M. Church.

The Rev. Jacob Hester, pastor of the Methodist church at Arlington, was named as one of the three conference evangelists, at the Indiana conference of the Wesleyan Methodist church held at Fairmount, Grant county, Thursday. Yesterday routine business was transacted at the conference and it was expected that the list of ministerial assignments for the year would be completed today. Rev. T. P. Baker of Marion was re-elected president of the Indiana conference.

AUTO SKIDS AND DASHES INTO POLE

Frank Martin of Raleigh, Damages
Machine in Richmond to Avoid Hitting a Woman.

OCCUPANTS ARE NOT INJURED

While trying to pass a hack at the corner of Seventh and North A streets Friday, the machine driven by Frank Martin of Raleigh skidded on the wet pavement, and dashed into a telegraph pole, crushing in the front part of the machine, breaking the right front wheel, the steering rod and springs, says the Richmond Palladium. Neither Mr. Martin nor his mother who was the only other occupant, were injured.

The accident occurred about noon. Mr. Martin was coming south on North Seventh street. As he approached the corner a hack was going north and a woman was crossing the street. In an effort to avoid the woman and the vehicle, Mr. Martin turned suddenly, causing the machine to skid into the pole.

LOCALS WILL BE FORCED TO EXTEND

Rushville Team Has Tough Proposition Sunday in the Mt. Jackson Athletics of Indianapolis.

GAME CALLED AT 2:30 O'CLOCK

Tomorrow when the local team plays the Mt. Jackson Athletics, the fans will have the first opportunity to see the real strength of the Rushville team. The locals have not been forced to extend themselves in any of the games so far this season but tomorrow they will have to go the limit, as the Mt. Jackson team is one of the best in the State. They have some team as is shown by the fact that it took the A. B. C.'s eleven innings to defeat them.

The Rushville line-up will be the same as usual with Avery and Anderson doing the battery work. Al Whitridge or Starkey will pitch for Mt. Jackson. The Mt. Jackson line-up is as follows: Buchanan, 1f; Butler, 3d; Wyatt, rf; Templeton, ss; Coble, 1st; Woodson, 2d; Gould, c; Whitridge or Starkey, p. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock.

FAIR LOOKS TO BE BEST EVER

Indications Point to a Most Successful Meeting—Space Will be at Premium.

STABLES ARE ALL FILLED

Concessions, Shows and Race Horses
Arrive From Columbus and Newcastle.

The Rush county fair never had better prospects for a successful fair than this year. Every available amount of space on the grounds will be occupied and the stables are all filled. The association is having a difficult time finding suitable quarters for all the race horses.

Concessions and horses began arriving yesterday evening and this morning the road to the fair grounds was literally lined with wagons, hauling shows, stands and the usual fair outfits. A large amount of fair stuff came from Newcastle this morning and this afternoon the fair people began to arrive from Columbus. One of the big attractions secured from Newcastle was a dog and pony show. This is said to be the largest show of its kind "making" fairs and the fair association was fortunate in getting it here.

The other big feature shows includes two vaudeville shows, a snake show and an animal show requiring 90 feet of space. This is the largest show. The thrilling free act outfit is expected to arrive this evening from New Harmony, and will be set up tomorrow. Numerous stands and other concessions are already on the grounds. One of the shows already up is that of the high diving dog. This show has proved a feature in every city they have exhibited.

Along with the concessions from Newcastle and Columbus came the horsemen. The stable of John Dagler arrived this morning. The best racing ever had at the fair is expected this year. The interest in the speed program is not confined alone to the stake races. Great interest is being shown in the two road races and the two-year-old pace. The county trot will be held on Wednesday, the county pace on Thursday, and the two-year-old pace on Friday. A large number of entries will be made in all the races.

The fair association has made a special appeal to the people of Rush county to exhibit their agricultural products. The agricultural hall is exclusive for local people and it is expected the exhibit will surpass that of former years. The races will not be for horses alone, for motorcycle races have been arranged for each day.

A new feature at the fair this year is the dance pavilion. The hall formerly used by the merchants has been converted into a dance pavilion and will no doubt be an added attraction. The sides of the building have been raised and the floor is being put in good condition.

The three days race program is as follows:

Wednesday, Aug. 21.
2:25 pace	$300.00
2:27 trot	300.00
County road trot	50.00
Thursday, Aug. 22.
2:12 pace	$300.00
2:15 trot	300.00
2:25 three-year-old pace	200.00
County road pace	50.00
Friday, Aug. 23.
2:17 pace	$300.00
2:20 trot	300.00
2:28 three-year-old trot	200.00

BIEDERWOLF IS COMING IN FALL

Noted Evangelist Wires Rushville Ministers He Will Undertake County Wide Campaign.

TO WRITE ABOUT HIS PLANS

Question of Holding Revival Here
Has Been Hanging Fire Since Last Spring.

Officers of the Rushville Ministerial Association received a wire this morning from the Rev. W. E. Biederwolf, the noted evangelist, that he would undertake the county evangelistic campaign here this fall.

No definite date has been settled on for the meeting. Several dates have been suggested, the tentative one being September fifteenth, the meeting to begin then and continue for five weeks.

The date and other arrangements will be settled by correspondence that is to be carried on between the evangelist and the local ministers. Dr. Biederwolf wired that he would write a letter at once explaining the conditions under which he will come. He was at Winona when he received the query from the Rushville ministers.

The question as to whether an evangelistic campaign should be carried on here this fall has been hanging fire all week. The question was put before the church boards which have been opportuned to take part in the meeting Monday, and the vote in favor of the revival was almost unanimous. The question arose at the meeting of the ministerial association Thursday, and after considerable discussion, it was decided to write Dr. Biederwolf concerning the conditions and leave it to him as to whether he should undertake the campaign.

The Rush county wide campaign is the first to take place in Indiana, where an evangelistic campaign will be waged this fall and winter by Dr. Biederwolf, was first suggested here by the Rev. E. L. Williams of Indianapolis at the Men and Religion Forward Movement campaign here in the spring. It was discussed pro and con then, and finally put off into the future.

When Dr. Biederwolf came here a week ago last Sunday to speak at the chautauqua the question of a revival arose again and a tour of the small towns was made by Dr. Biederwolf, and the Rushville ministers on the following Monday. They were all unanimously in favor of the county campaign and the subject was discussed by the church boards a week later.

Although no definite proposition has been made by the evangelist, it is understood that he would like a tabernacle near the center of the city that would seat thirty-five hundred people. He carries a large corps of workers, including assistant evangelists, who would carry on meetings in the small towns in all probability. Dr. Biederwolf held a meeting in Dayton, Ohio, a year ago last June and aroused the whole city. He made a favorable impression at the chautauqua here.

COMING FOR THE FAIR.

Greensburg News: Manager Bond of the Airdome, went to Rushville Thursday where he will make arrangements with the fair association for the booking of the Henderson Musical Company for the fair there. The company has added three new people and will be almost an entirely new show when it reappears here this week.

WAS INJURED IN RUNAWAY

Henry Clevenger Sustained Two Broken Ribs and Deep Cut.

Henry Clevenger sustained two broken ribs and a deep cut on the head this morning in a runaway while on the way to the fair grounds. The runaway was due to a broken shaft, which frightened the horse. Mr. Clevenger was thrown against the wheel and dragged for quite a distance. He is employed at the fair grounds as a carpenter and at the time was on his way there. The injuries while quite painful will not prove serious.

GAY PATCHEN IS RUSH COUNTY HORSE

In First Race of Life Behind Dave Wagoner She Takes a Mark of 2:13.

PHENOM OF HALF MILE TRACKS

A story that is of great interest to horsemen in this part of the country has just come to light, says the Shelbyville Republican. Jack Amos of this city last year purchased a green pacer from a man in Rush county. The animal was tracked and showed wonderful ability. Last week David Wagoner entered the animal, known as "Gay Patchen," in one of the pacing races and he caused her to be marked at 2:13, this being the first mark for the animal. Ralph Tomlinson happened to witness the work of the mare and jumping on a train he came here and bought a half interest in the mare for $125 before Amos knew of the mark. The mare was originally bought for $200. She won first money at Columbus, Ind., this week in the 2:14 pace, the fastest mile being 2:13½.

BOY SCOUT FALLS 50 FEET

Willard Hyatt's Skull is Crushed in Accident at Madison.

Willard Hyatt, a Knightstown boy scout, will probably die as the result of a fall of fifty feet from the highest point on Clifty falls, near Madison, where a party of Knightstown boy scouts were enjoying an outing. The boy's skull was crushed, but it is not thought that his case is entirely hopeless. His parents and family doctor arrived at his bedside in the King's Daughters' hospital at Madison today. The boy scouts were in charge of the Rev. Harry Graham of Knightstown. It will be remembered they passed through here enroute to Madison several days ago.

CALLS IT CRAZY-QUILT.

Knightstown Banner: B. R. Inman, for many years a Prohibitionist and an advocate of its great principle—the suppression of the liquor traffic—has swallowed the crazy-quilt like platform of the Bull Moose party, leaving his paper, the slowly expiring Middletown News, to shift for itself. Poor old man Inman! His failure to receive an office on a "silver platter" from the Republicans of Henry county upset his stomach, and he now occupies a high seat in the party of Discontent. Peace to his soul! His jump was expected, therefore he left no vacancy.

Hargrove & Mullin,SENATE ACTION
SUPPORTS TAFT*Veto of Steel and Wool Bills
Sustained.*NO TARIFF LEGISLATION NOW

Refusal of the Upper House to Pass These Measures Over President's Formal Disapproval Means That Tariff Reformers Are Doomed to Disappointment at This Session—Regulars and Insurgents Unite.

Washington, Aug. 17.—By declining to pass over President Taft's veto of the wool and steel bills, the senate cleared up the tariff program for this session. These are the measures that the house passed over the president's formal disapproval. The senate's action means that there will be no tariff legislation at this session.

The senate votes on the steel and wool bills were decisive. The steel bill came up first upon the motion of Senator Simmons of North Carolina, the ranking minority member of the finance committee. The vote was a strict party division, 32 ayes and 39 noes, and was the first instance in a long time where the Republican regulars and insurgents seem united.

On the wool bill, however, there were 39 ayes to 36 noes. The measure failed, however, as 50, or a two-thirds vote, was necessary.

Plans have been perfected whereby the naval appropriation bill with a provision for one battleship will be railroaded through the house and the senate without further delay. The bill will be called up in the house today and under agreement will be debated for one hour and a half.

By a vote of 143 to 96 the house adopted as a substitute for the Bourne parcels post plan, the compromise bill presented by Mr. Lewis of Maryland. The house then sent the bill to conference with instructions to its managers that they should make a fight for the Lewis bill. The indications are that the Lewis bill will be the subject of a compromise by the conferees.

POLICE LAXITY

Gotham's "Finest" Coming in For Another Investigation.

New York, Aug. 17.—An immediate investigation into the conduct of Police Lieutenant John Becker, brother of Lieutenant Charles Becker, under indictment for the Rosenthal murder, and other tenderloin detectives, was ordered by Police Commissioner Waldo in connection with a story of alleged police laxity in failing to arrest recently a wire tapper while the swindler was lurching with his intended victim.

The plan is for the trials of the men accused of the murder of Rosenthal to begin on Sept. 3. The district attorney is not yet sure which of the defendants he will bring to trial first. He is inclined to think that he will try the actual murderers before he takes Lieutenant Becker into court.

"Tenderloin" Inspector Suspended.

New York, Aug. 17.—As a direct result of the disorderly house raid made by the district attorney's staff, Inspector Cornelius G. Hayes, police commander of the new tenderloin, was stripped of his gold badge, reduced to the grade of captain and suspended from duty.

SPECIAL INQUIRY

Dix Calls Extra Session of Court to Investigate Alleged Boodling.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Governor J. A. Dix has called an extraordinary term of the supreme court to convene in this city on Sept. 16 to investigate certain matters relating to the conduct of public affairs in the city and county of Albany. The convening of this extraordinary term is the outgrowth of the testimony presented to the special committee of the state senate which probed the affairs of Albany city and county in the fall of 1911.

It is believed special attention will be paid to elections in Albany and the alleged use of money in connection therewith. The alleged contribution of money by city and county employees for election purposes is another matter of possible inquiry.

WAITING FOR HIM ON

Chief Lieutenants.

Washington, Aug. 17.—According to a dispatch received at the state department from Consul Edwards at that city, General Orozco, principal leader in the Mexican revolution, has withdrawn from Juarez, which now promises to be retaken by the government forces within a day or so. Orozco left only a small guard to protect the city. He also left behind one of his principal lieutenants, Colonel Robelo, who was arrested by a special agent of the department of justice as soon as he crossed the international bridge. Colonel Robelo stated that he was coming across to the El Paso side to telephone to Colonel Steever, in command of the American force, to ask that he prevent suspicious characters from going to Juarez and sacking the town during the absence of the rebels. Robelo has been wanted by the American authorities for several weeks on charge of violating neutrality laws and smuggling arms and ammunition.

Our Marines Had a Quieting Effect Down in Managua.

Washington, Aug. 17.—The appearance of 350 marines at Managua had a quieting effect on the rebel forces that have been bombarding the Nicaraguan capital since last Friday, according to a telegram received at the state department from Minister Weitzel. The minister said that as soon as the marines joined 100 bluejackets already on the ground, guarding the American legation. General Zeladan, commanding the rebels, began to withdraw. At night he had reached Masaya, eighteen miles from the capital.

A fierce fight ensued and women and children are reported to have been murdered by wholesale. Many girls were made captive and carried off by Mohammedans.

TAFT MAY VETO
THE CANAL BILL*Not Favorable to Free Tolls Provision.*WILL PASS THE HOUSE TODAY

Senate Having Accepted the Conference Report on Measure, This Much Discussed Bill Now Goes to House, Which Will Quickly Pass It Up to President, Whose Attitude Toward Same Is Known to Be Unfriendly.

Washington, Aug. 17.—The prospects of the president vetoing the radical Panama canal bill are improving, it is said. Mr. Taft told several callers that he was uncertain what he would do in regard to the bill when it finally was laid before him. As indicating his unfavorable attitude toward the free tolls provision in this bill, it has been learned that the president himself only a day or two ago sent letters to Chairman Adamson of the house, and Chairman Brandegee of the senate conferees, suggesting a provision which might relieve the present situation. The president urged that an amendment be added to the bill conferring upon courts of the United States jurisdiction to pass on damage suits brought by aliens on account of the free toll provision in the bill. This would in effect confer upon the courts the power of construing the Hay-Pauncefote treaty and in the event of decision against the United States would result in the nullification of the free tolls section of the bill.

The president's suggestion, however, came too late, as the conference report had been completed and agreed upon.

Representative Adamson, who is a Democrat, wrote to the president contending that the powers which he proposed were in effect conferred on the new district court that is to be created on the isthmus, but other conferees differ from Mr. Adamson on this point.

The conference report on the Panama bill was adopted by the senate by a vote of 49 to 18. The bill will pass the house today and will then be laid before Mr. Taft.

A new element of opposition to the bill has made its appearance. Organized labor was heard from in opposition to the section of the bill which allows foreign built vessels to be admitted to American registry if they are owned exclusively by Americans.

THROW BOLTERS OUT

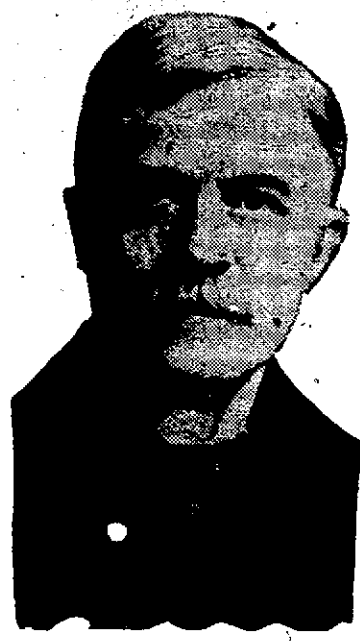

This Is the Word the President Passes on to His Party.

Washington, Aug. 17.—President Taft calls upon Republicans of the country to throw the bolters out of the party and prevent them from posing as regular organization men. In a speech to the Maryland Republican Editorial association he said: "All we ask is a fair fight—a man cannot be in the Republican party and in the third party at the same time, and should be compelled to make his selection."

The president also branded as "dishonest" electors who will remain on the Republican ticket and then vote for Roosevelt for president. The president's speech was the first time he had disclosed his idea of how the campaign ought to be conducted. The president makes it plain that the Republicans who are trying to straddle the political fence will not be permitted to roost there long if he can help it.

No Necessity For Operation.

Los Angeles, Aug. 17.—Nat Goodwin, who was injured when his boat was cast ashore, complains of much pain at the base of the spine. His physician said that partial paralysis had set in. He called a consultation of surgeons. After examining Goodwin the surgeons declared that danger of fatal result was passed and that with rest and quiet the actor would soon improve. It was decided that there was no necessity for an operation.

TRUST CONTROLLED*This Is the Charge Brought By Government.

Washington, Aug. 17.—In the federal court at Philadelphia the department of justice has instituted a suit against the so-called moving picture trust. Ten concerns are accused of combining to monopolize the business, even to the extent of limiting the number of moving picture shows and otherwise violating the Sherman anti-trust act.

The petition says that the alleged unlawful combination of defendants became effective Jan. 1, 1910, when the Motion Picture Patents company was organized, this organization being a holding company for all the companies made defendants in this action. The petition sets forth that besides collecting and distributing royalties among the defendants, the patents company's only business is the bringing of lawsuits under the patents it holds. It is charged by the government that hundreds of suits have been brought to harass and oppress all persons engaged in the motion picture business who have not "obeyed the mandates" of the patents company. Twenty-five corporations and individuals are named defendants in the suit.

CROWD TOO BIG

Police Had to Close Doors at Roosevelt Opening.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 17.—Colonel Roosevelt made the opening speech of his campaign in Infantry hall here last night. Fully 2,500 people were seated in the hall three-quarters of an hour before the time announced for the appearance of the speaker, and it took a pitched battle on the part of the police to close the doors against the crowd that was struggling vainly for admission. The colonel's greeting was enthusiastic and during the progress of his speech he was frequently interrupted by cheers.

Made Long Argument.

Los Angeles, Aug. 17.—Contrary to expectations, the Darrow case did not go to the jury last evening. District Attorney Fredericks, who began his argument Thursday at 2 o'clock, did not close until 4:40 yesterday afternoon. Judge George H. Hutton then announced his instructions to the jury would not be ready before 8 o'clock this morning.

INCREASE OF 83 PER CENT IN CROP

Thirteenth Census Statistics Indicate Value in 1909 Was 5,487,-000,000 in Round Numbers.

IN 1899 IT WAS $2,488,000,000

Total Value in 1909 Equal to $59.66 Per Capita of Population of U. S.

The total value of the crops of Continental United States in 1909 was, in round numbers, $5,487,000,000, as compared with $2,999,000,000 in 1899. The increase was thus $2,488,000,000, or 83 per cent. according to a statement issued by E. Dana Durand, Director of the Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce and Labor. The tabulations showing these total results were carried on in the agricultural division of the Bureau of the Census, under the supervision of L. G. Powers, former chief statistician, and J. L. Coulter, expert special agent. A Bulletin upon which this advance statement is based, showing the details of acreage, production and value of all crops for the United States, by States, will be issued at an early date.

In the case of some crops (such as maple and syrup and forest products of farm), it is impossible to secure a usable figure showing acreage; in certain other cases (such as orchard fruits, grapes, tropical fruits and nuts), the number of trees and vines of bearing and not of bearing age is secured in lieu of acreage. The value of the crops for which reports of acreage were secured amounted in 1909 to $4,953,000,000, or nearly nine-tenths of the value of all crops. At the census of 1900 the corresponding value was $2,721,000,000, or about the same per cent. of the value of all crops. The total acreage of crops with acreage reports in 1909 was 311,293,000. In April, 1910, the land in farms in the United States was reported by the census as 878,798,000 acres, of which 478,452,000 acres were improved. The crops with acreage reports, therefore, occupied 35.4 per cent. of the total land in farms and 55.1 per cent. of the total improved land. The same crops in 1899 occupied 283,218,000 acres, which was 33.8 per cent. of all land not occupied by the crops specified consists chiefly of land in improved pastures, land occupied by fruit and nut trees and vines, for which acreage was not reported, improved land lying fallow, and land in house yards and barnyards.

The total value of crops in 1909 was equal to $59.66 per capita of the population of the United States, while the value per capita in 1899 was $39.46 (based on the population of the United States on April 15, 1910, and June 1, 1900, respectively). There were 6,361,502 farms in the United States in 1910, so that the value of crops of 1909 was equal to an average of $863 per farm, while the average value of crops per farm for 1899 was $523.

The census has made no attempt to ascertain the total net value of farm products for 1909, including both that of crops and animal products. Merely to add the value of these two groups of products together would involve extensive duplication, since large quantities of the crops reported are fed to the animals on the farms and reported later as live-stock products. It is impossible to ascertain accurately the amount of such duplication, and the attempt to do so, which was made at the Twelfth Census, was not considered satisfactory. For this reason the relative importance of crops as a factor in the agricultural production of the United States can not be determined precisely.

A large part of the extraordinary increase in the total value of farm crops between 1899 and 1909 is attributable to higher prices. This might be inferred from the fact that, while the acreage of crops with acreage reports increased only 9.9 per cent. the value of such crops increased 82 per cent. It also appears by comparing the percentages of increase in the quantity of the various individual crops with the percentages of increase in the value. Thus, for all cereals taken together, the production increased only 1.7 per cent. while the value increased 79.8 per cent; for hay and forage the production increased 23 per cent. and the value 70.2 per cent; and for cotton (not counting cotton seed) the production increased 11.7 per cent. and the value 117.3 per cent.

A more precise calculation of the average increase in unit values of crops has, however, been made by the Census Bureau.

For the individual crops for which both quantity produced and value were reported at both censuses, the average value per unit in 1899 was computed and this was multiplied into the quantity produced in 1909, thus showing the total value which would have been reported for each crop in 1909 if the acreage value per unit had been the same as ten years earlier. For certain crops, the values were not reported separately in 1899, and for certain other crops quantities were not reported at either census but the analysis covers nine-tenths of the crops of the country as measured by value.

The total reported value of the crops covered by the computation in 1899 was $2,691,979,000, and the total reported value of the same crops in 1909 was $4,934,490,000, an increase of 83.3 per cent. Had the prices of 1899 prevailed, however, the value of these in 1909 would have amounted to $2,962,358,000, or an increase of only 10 per cent. over 1899. The difference between $2,962,358,000 and $4,934,490,000, or $1,972,132,000, represents the amount added to the value of these crops in 1909 by reason of increase in prices over those of 1899, the average percentage of increase in prices being thus 66.6.

The figure just given, 10 per cent. as representing the excess of the value of the crops of 1909, on the basis of 1899 values, over the values of the same crops in 1899, is virtually a consolidated expression of the general increase in the quantity of crops produced. Covering, as it does, nine-tenths of the crops of the country, it may properly be compared with the increase of 21 per cent. in the population of the United States between 1890 and 1910. An earlier statement showed that the increase in the number of farms from 1900 to 1910 was 10.9 per cent. and the increase in the rural population which includes places under 2,500 in addition to the agricultural population, was 11.2 per cent. the increase in urban population being 34.8 per cent. It is only by reason of a great reduction in the exportation of agricultural products that the increasing consumption of the country has been supplied.

CHANGE IN THE SEASONS NOTED

Boys Are Better Aware of This Fact Than Are Any Other Persons.

TIME FOR SWIMMING SHORT

For many months there has been a more or less steady current of talk, to the effect that the seasons have changed in this vicinity, and are not at all as they were a half, a fourth or even an eighth of a century ago. Whatever the merits of this belief may be, it has gathered a considerable crop of converts unto itself this summer, about the city in the form of practically the entire boy-population. The reason for their joining the sect which says the weather is gone awry is very plain to them. The swimming season was hardly two weeks long.

As everyone remembers, the spring was late. Young America slipped away and went to the river many an afternoon, intending to "go in," in a temperature that would have made the teeth of a follower of Hengist of Horsa rattle in his head, but had his resolution shattered by the chilly winds that swept the face of the water. A little later some of the bolder spirits did "go in" and promptly came forth again happy in spirit but blue in the flesh. At last real warmth arrived, and for a very few weeks the swimming was truly fine. Then came the period of cool days and chilly nights that promptly put the water back to the old, prohibitive temperature. From the present outlook, since high temperature returned the accumulating foulness of the streams at low tide, and the presence of the dreaded Dog Days, will make the sport indifferent at least for the rest of the season.

Prosperity.

A well-known Democratic editor said, early in 1908, that nothing except a crop failure, a pestilence and a panic would enable his party to beat the Republicans in a presidential year. It will be noticed that none of these calamities is in sight now, and the election is less than three months away. In fact the country is in a rather salubrious condition, hygienically. Not only is there no sign of a panic, but business of all sorts is improving in a degree which has gone beyond all expectations. This is true of every important branch of activity. Moreover, government crop reports indicate that this will be a year of great abundance. In the aggregate the grain crops will break all the records. For the first time in country's history the products of the farms will pass the $10,000,000,000 mark. According to all precedents this ought to be a good year for the Republican party. The party which is in power in the nation in a year of plenty, as this is, usually wins. When the people find all the physical conditions favorable they generally steer clear of rash experiments in politics. Only in periods of calamity, when everything seems to be going wrong, and when worse conditions threaten, do the masses of the public turn from the party which is uppermost in the government. They want a change, believing that a change of any sort could not harm them, and might, possibly, help them. The strike in the Carnegie works at Homestead, Pa., in 1892, and the prominence of the Pinkerton guards there on the side of Carnegie aroused a popular prejudice against the ironmaster, and as there were labor troubles in other places also, the employers in all cases being presumed to be Republicans, a wave of popular prejudice was created which defeated Harrison for re-election and gave Cleveland his second term.

But the physical outlook in 1912 is pleasing. Nobody will assert that the Republican party deserves all the credit for the great crops of this year. Nor will any Republican say that his party is entirely responsible for the favorable condition of the public health. It will be remembered, however, that the National Government, a few years ago, assumed control of the quarantine arrangements at the country's ports, and an improvement in conditions set in immediately. The wisdom of the Republican party in conducting the affairs of the government has had much to do with the trade rally which is seen on all sides. All of these considerations will help the Republican party on November 5.

Easy Now! Go Easy!

Through a slip, the following was received by the Huntington Herald, which may be of interest to readers as an expose of how the Democratic committee plan to "bleed" the faithful in an attempt to settle campaign debts, says the Huntington Herald. Notice how soothing the words of grab. Wonder how many thousands any Democratic paper in Huntington county could separate from the good citizens of the faith:

Suggestions to aid in raising Democratic campaign through the newspapers:

Before opening contribution column write a strong editorial calling attention to the plan and the work contemplated. By personal interview 'phone and letter have a nice list of Democrats ready to start off with large subscriptions.

Then open the column with other editorial appeal followed with those subscriptions as an enthusiastic "starter."

Induce party leaders, presidents of clubs, and public officials to write strong letters calling upon Democrats and Independent citizens to donate according to their means.

Use these letters daily in introducing the contribution column.

Keep sufficient subscriptions in reserve to insure your being able to show increase every day.

Get all the large subscriptions in as early as possible, in order that you may get down to the army of dollar subscriptions.

Personal letters should be written to all Democrats and Independents possible, urging them to donate and induce others to do so.

Sam Sanderson Says:

That the people who suffer most from the hot wave are those who travel the farthest to get cool.

Prospective contributors should be grouped according to their ability to give, and appealed to through a series of "Form Letters" suited to each particular class.

Individuals, clubs and communities may be diplomatically pitted against one another in friendly rivalry.

The names of contributors and the sums they give should be published daily, full credit being given clubs or organizations and their heads, for contributions received through them or by their efforts.

Chairman Newspaper Fund Bureau.

Col. Roosevelt is understood to have some very decided opinions concerning the currency question, which is one of the most important questions of the day, but there is not a hint of what they are in his recent public utterances, although there is reason to suppose they must be satisfactory to Mr. Perkins and others of that disinterested sort.

Governor Wilson says he doesn't know enough about the currency to be dogmatic about it, but why mention this when he is equally vague on everything else?

URGES THE USE OF STANDARD BARREL

Prof. C. G. Woodbury of the Indiana Apple Commission Says Growers Will Have to Eventually.

LAW TO TAKE EFFECT IN YEAR

Saturday August 3d President Taft signed the Sulzer Apple barrel bill. This bill established a standard barrel and grade for apples when packed in barrels. The standard barrel will be of the following dimensions: Length of stave, twenty-eight and one-half inches; diameter of head, seventeen and one-eighth inches; distance between heads, twenty-six inches; circumference of bulge, sixty-four inches outside measurement. It should contain as nearly as possible seven thousand and fifty-six cubic inches. The grades provided for in the bill are U. S. standard minimum size two and one-half inches; "U. S. standard minimum size two and one-fourth inches;" "U. S. standard minimum size two inches."

Prof. C. G. Woodbury, secretary of the Indiana Apple Show which is to be held in Indianapolis November 13-19 says: "Indiana growers should make every effort to acquaint themselves with the provisions of this law before July 1, 1913, when it goes into effect. The bill is not compulsory. Growers are not compelled to use the standard barrel or grades. However, the time will soon come when only apples branded as 'U. S. Standard' can be sold on the open market. Just as soon as one grower packs his fruit so that it can be sold under a United States guarantee every other orchardist will be forced to it as the buyer will show preference to the branded fruit. The enforcing of this law falls under the jurisdiction of the pure food and drug act. Growers should aim to use their short measure barrels this season and only contract for standard barrels for next season's crop."

Emmett F. Branch of Martinsville

Will Likely Have Charge of Speakers Bureau.

Extensive preparations are being made by the Republican State committee for a speaking campaign in Indiana, and within a short time there will be a large number of speakers in the field. The chairman of the speakers bureau has not yet been appointed, but it is understood that Emmett F. Branch, of Martinsville, former Speaker of the Indiana house of representatives, may be the man to take charge of that bureau. This will be determined in the next few days.

Already campaign speeches are being made by Republicans over the state, although the campaign has not fairly started. James E. Watson spoke this week at the twelfth district congressional convention at Kendallville, at the sixth district convention at Connersville and at the Madison county convention at Anderson. Each place he was greeted by large crowds.

John C. Chaney, who was one of the candidates for the gubernatorial nomination, spoke at the county convention at Greencastle this week. Fred I. King of Wabash, candidate for secretary of State, was the chief orator at the Noble county convention at Albion this week. Frank B. Posey of Evansville spoke at two county conventions this week, one at Corydon and one at Washington.

Charles B. Landis, former congressman from the Ninth district, who has been in Delaware for some time on business, is back at home at Delphi and he was to speak at the Montgomery county convention at Crawfordsville this week.

There is a great demand for Republican campaign speakers all over the State. There is scarcely a county that has not asked the State headquarters for a speaker. Chautauquas throughout the State also have been pleading with the headquarters to send speakers to make addresses on political days but up to this time the State committee has not seen fit to grant any of these requests. State Chairman Sims says that there is too much real political work to be done to allow speakers to spend their time at chautauquas, although he would be glad if he could spare some of them for that purpose.

The mail everyday brings to the State headquarters requests from Republicans, among them being those from Chubbuck, Kirkland, Rochester, Tipton and Shelbyville for Republican speakers. Every day brings its crop of such requests.

When the campaign gets in full swing there will be no lack of speakers to make the campaign in Indiana. A number of headliners, campaigning under the auspices of the Republican national committee, will be sent into Indiana; but in addition there will be a large number of Indiana men on the stump, many of them speakers of ability. Many of them already have volunteered their services, among them being Judge Ed Jackson, New Castle; James Wade Emison, Vincennes; Thomas T. Moore, Greencastle; Fred I. King, Wabash; James Bingham, Indianapolis; James A. Hemenway, Boonville; Anderson Percifield, Nashville; Charles F. Remy, Indianapolis; Frank B. Posey, Evansville; James E. Watson, Rushville; John C. Chaney, Sullivan; Finley P. Mount, Crawfordsville; Henry Caylor, Noblesville; L. B. Swanks, Indianapolis; James A. May, Alexandria; and John F. LaFollette, Portland.

All of these men, it is said, are now ready to jump into the fight, and the headquarters will begin making dates for them in a few days.

The city of Galveston, Tex., plans to become the best lighted municipality in the world.

SOCIETY NEWS

The young society folk of Goshen are doing their utmost to make this week spent in Goshen by six Rushville girls a pleasant one. The Misses Alma Green, Nettie Clark, Helen Scudder, Frances Frazee, Harriet Vredenberg and Wanda Wyatt are the guests of Miss Pauline Coverston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Coverston, formerly of this city, and she and her friends are giving social functions daily for the entertainment of the visitors.

The week of delightful events will close Monday evening when the Misses Elyva, Natalia and Elma Galentine of Goshen will give a dancing party for fifty couples at the Goshen band park pavillion near Goshen for the Rushville girls. This afternoon Miss Pauline Platt of Goshen was to entertain for them.

Friday afternoon Miss Bernice Bechtel had a large company of friends in their honor and Thursday afternoon Miss Coverston and Miss Lucile Starbuck, who visits here frequently, entertained eighty girls with an afternoon tea from three to five at the home of Miss Starbuck. Wednesday evening Miss Coverston gave a private dance at the band park pavillion at which her guests were introduced to the Goshen young people.

Miss Florence Frazee or Rushville, the guest of Mrs. Magaw and Miss Blanche Patton of Danville, Va., who is here with Mrs. Henry Patton at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sedgwick, shared honors at a charming bridge party given yesterday afternoon at the Beeler home south of the city, when Mrs. Magaw asked sixteen friends to meet the out-of-town visitors, says the Richmond Item.

Dahlias and other garden flowers were used to carry out the color scheme of yellow and green that prevailed in the several rooms where the guests were entertained. The game was played at four tables and the favors for the afternoon were given to Miss Frazee, Miss Patton, Mrs. William Kerkam and Miss Coral Weeghman. Following the games a delicious lunch was served. The guests were seated at one large table and several small ones, each being adorned with bowls of yellow blooms and greenery. The ices and bonbons carried out the color scheme in a pleasing manner.

Those enjoying the affair were Miss Frazee, Miss Patton, Mrs. Henry Patton of Danville, Va., Mrs. William Kerkam of Washington, Mrs. Julian Cates, Mrs. Harry Loutz, Mrs. Norman Craighead, Miss Rose Genett, Miss Marie Campbell, Mrs. Frances Corwin, Mrs. Brock Fagan, Parkville, Ill., Miss Coral Weeghman, Miss Myral Weeghman, Mrs. Thomas Kaufman, Mrs. Ray Holton, Miss Margaret Sedgwick, and Miss Myron Malsby.

Invitations have been received here for the wedding of Miss Mattye Givens Wilcott, daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Wilcott of Broadhead, Ky., to Orval Dawson Sampson, deputy county treasurer, the wedding to take place in Broadhead Wednesday, September fourth.

AMUSEMENTS

The Princess has a feature Vitagraph drama for the first picture tonight. It is entitled "Mockery" and is said to be a very dramatic picture. The other is an Essanay comedy, "Billy Changes His Mind."

The Portola will have another three reel show tonight. "The Prayers of Manueto" is a Vitagraph western drama. The second is a Kalem drama, "Missionaries in Darkest Africa." It is an instructive and interesting picture. The last film is a Biograph comedy, "Tomboy Bessie and Algy, the Watchman."

Direct from the Garrick Theater, Chicago, where it is still in the midst of a record breaking run since April 21st, Mort H. Singer's Berlin musical comedy success, "A Modern Eve" will come to the Shubert Murat Theatre, Indianapolis, as the State Fair Attraction, beginning Monday, September 24. Accompanied by an unexcelled cast of principals; the famous beauty chorus which has been the toast of Chicago, and a special orchestra, "A Modern Eve" will move bodily from Chicago to Indianapolis, where it will be presented exactly as seen by over four hundred thousand people during the summer. This attraction is without doubt the biggest hit ever sent out of Chicago, and although "A Modern Eve" has not yet been seen outside of that city, its many song hits are the rage all over the country. "Good Bye Everybody," "Lonesome Moon," "Rita My Margarita," "Hello Sweetheart," "Every Day is Christmas When You're Married," "Is the Girl You Married Still the Girl You Love," "Love in Transit" and "That's the Lesson I'm Teaching To You" are fascinating tunes to be heard wherever music is played.

ELECTED TO HIGH OFFICE.

The annual State convention of the grand lodges of colored Odd Fellows, Venerable Patriarchs, and the Household of Ruth, closed in Muncie last night. Allen Daniels of this city was elected grand master of the Odd Fellows. Mr. Daniels returned this morning from attending the convention.

CHAPTER VI.

The Lost Bracelet.

The evening was a kaleidoscopic whirl, and I was a little giddy with the rush of events after the first awful time on the stairs. I managed to look after Mr. Abbott—at least it developed that he looked after me; he was that sort—on a little balcony where we could get away from the mob and talk poetical cabbages, until Laura came to look after him herself, and an '09 took me away to dance.

Out of the whirl two things were distinct, like beacon lights shining through a mist. One was His Grace, the Duc de Trouville. I suppose I should have been frightened talking, French at that, with a real live duke who traveled with a retinue, and even in the jam always had a cleared space about him like a charmed circle, but from the moment he bowed low over my hand in acknowledgement of my name all fear vanished in a vague idea that somewhere before I had seen him. He was not extraordinary in appearance. He was exactly one's idea of a French duke; small, dapper, distinctly foreign in dress and manner, with a precise mustache and a pompadour.

I searched my memory, America? Of course not. England? No. The continent? Perhaps. But where? How? When? Was the name familiar? In the first flush of my awe of him I couldn't say. Why should I remember him? I couldn't answer that, and it worried me.

The other distinct thing was a little indisposition on the part of Miss Agazziz, which amounted to nothing at the time, but which developed into a mystery. She complained of feeling faint while dancing with His Grace, and they came upon the balcony where Mr. Abbott and I were talking. She recovered immediately when Mr. Abbott brought a glass of water, but His Grace meanwhile was very much excited in a jumble of awfully poor English and graceful French. Later, when the evening was all over—and a goodly portion of the morning, too—and I had gone, absolutely exhausted and entirely happy, to my sitting-room, the door of which was open, as we had left it between Laura's suite and mine, I stumbled on rather a tense scene.

Natalie was draped languidly upon a chair in the center of Laura's pretty white and gold room, while Laura stood rigidly by a window, and Mrs. Hazard sat rather upright in a chair hardly proportioned to her short legs, with a pucker between her eyes that was most unusual.

"I couldn't have lost it," Natalie was saying. "I'm too particular about the clasp. It's a patent affair and has to be undone."
"But my dear child," expostulated Mrs. Hazard, "even patent affairs can be defective. I had the servants search the rooms thoroughly and the yard beneath the balcony, under the all-seeing eyes of a detective, but we will search more thoroughly tomorrow. I myself questioned here and there, but of course if any one had found it they would have come directly to me. You can't imagine how it distresses me."

DON'T PULL OUT THE GRAY HAIRS

A Few Applications of a Simple Remedy Will Bring Back the Natural Color.

"Pull out one gray hair and a dozen will take its place" is an old saying, which is, to a great extent, true, if no steps are taken to stop the cause. When gray hairs appear it is a sign that Nature needs assistance. It is Nature's call for help. Gray hair, dull, lifeless hair, or hair that is falling out, is not necessarily a sign of advancing age, for there are thousands of elderly people with perfect heads of hair without a single streak of gray.

When gray hairs come, or when the hair seems to be lifeless or dead, some good, reliable hair-restoring treatment should be resorted to at once. Specialists say that one of the best preparations to use is the old-fashioned "sage tea" which our grandparents used. The best preparation of this kind is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of domestic sage and sulphur, scientifically compounded with later discovered hair tonics and stimulants, the whole mixture being carefully balanced and tested by experts.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is clean and wholesome and perfectly harmless. It refreshes dry, parched hair, removes dandruff and gradually restores faded or gray hair to its natural color.

Don't delay another minute. Start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur at once and see what a difference a few days' treatment will make in your hair. This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agents, Hargrove and Mullin.

STOP SNEEZING AND SNIFFLING

For Hay Fever and Rose Cold Try Ely's Cream Balm. It Gives Instant Relief.

"Balm" is just the word for this soothing, healing, antiseptic Cream. Its effect in cases of Hay Fever and Rose Colds are almost magical. You just grease the nostrils with a little of the Cream, inhale the pleasant, aromatic fumes; and in a few minutes your head begins to clear, the soreness is relieved, and the sneezing, who have suffered for years with sniffing and weeping stopped. People Hay Fever and Rose Cold can be free from all the distressing symptoms by simply using Ely's Cream Balm morning and night during the Hay Fever Season.

Hay Fever is due to an irritated, inflamed condition of the mucous membrane (inside skin) of the nose and throat. Strong powders, snuffs and sprays simply aggravate the trouble, but Ely's Cream Balm soothes, heals and strengthens the raw, sore membranes, and in this way not only relieves the trouble but prevents its return.

All druggists sell and recommend it. Get a fifty cent bottle today—use it according to directions—get your money back if you are not satisfied.

I didn't know whether to close the door or not. I moved a chair with a lump to let them know I was there, and Laura called to me.

"What is it?" I asked, joining them. "Can I help?"

"Natalie has lost a bracelet," Laura answered me, "a most valuable one. She missed it after she was on the balcony. You were there, Loulie."

"Why, yes, with Mr. Abbott." I looked from one to the other, and my gaze came to rest upon Laura's distressed face. "Mr. Abbott went for a glass of water while His Grace and I unfasted Miss Agazziz's gloves and chafed her wrists."

It seemed an awfully long minute before any one said anything else. "Natalie, do you think any one took it?" Laura demanded.

"Why, of course not?" Natalie replied. But as that rather belied her former statement no one believed her. "My dear," Mrs. Hazard said, "there were detectives all over the place."

"If you couldn't have lost it, Natalie," Laura persisted, "there can be only one other answer. And if a thief, why take just one bracelet?" Natalie arose.

"I'm awfully sorry, dear, if I said so. It really doesn't matter. Of course I can't get another like it, because there isn't another like it in the world, or so many emeralds matched so perfectly. It came down to me from a great-great-grandmother, and has all sorts of history attached to it. But if it's gone—it's gone!"

She picked up her wraps and I hastened forward to help her, while Mrs. Hazard, in her decisive, direct way, went to a desk that stood in a corner of the room.

"How much was it worth, Natalie?" she asked.

"Oh, without the associations and the history, and the matchless perfection of the stones, I may be able to replace it for fifty thousand dollars," Natalie replied. "That's what it's insured for."

I nearly fainted. The amount astonished Mrs. Hazard, too, for she blinked and her mouth dropped open a bit like mine has a habit of doing, but she turned and wrote something, and when she got up she was holding out to Natalie a check for fifty thousand dollars.

"Deposit that in your bank," she said. "If we find the bracelet you may return it to me."

Natalie refused. But when the slip of paper was held out by a distressed and determined old lady she took it, folded it with long, slim fingers, and tore it slowly and gently into bits. The bits she let flutter into a nearby waste basket.

"I couldn't think of such a thing," she drawled. "Besides, if I don't find the bracelet the insurance company will have to pay for it."

When the door closed upon Natalie and Mrs. Hazard I looked at Laura and Laura looked at me, then my knees gave way and I sank into the chair Natalie had just vacated. The enormity of the thing flashed upon me.

"What did she mean?" I asked. My lips were dry and my throat felt queer.

"She didn't mean anything," Laura answered. "She is always losing things."

"But a thing so valuable," I gasped, "an heirloom. She lost that on the balcony, too, and—"

"She doesn't know; that's where she missed it."

"But she said—"

"It was rather horrid of her, too. I suppose she hates to admit she was careless with a bracelet worth fifty thousand dollars—without the association and the history, and the matchless perfection of the stones. Mother believes she lost it. That check amused me. Mother may not be delicate, always, but she's most effective. It was one way of closing the matter so far as we are concerned."

I got up wearily. The clock on the mantel was pointing to four. It was almost another day.

"I only hope," I sighed, "your mother looked sufficiently into my credentials."

Laura caught me suddenly in her arms and pressed her cheek to mine. "I was afraid you'd say that," she whispered. "Loulie, I wouldn't give you for fifteen of Natalie. There, that's my answer. Now go get some sleep."

CHAPTER VII.

A Conference of the Powers.

I slept. But at eight o'clock my eyes popped open and refused to stay shut again. I wondered if Jo had had breakfast. I jumped out of bed to call to her. I got her just as she was sitting down to the table, but she promised to wait for me, and I hustled into my clothes. I wanted to talk to her about the duke and that lost bracelet.

But I wasn't prepared for the happenings on the marble steps at the front door as I emerged. A young man—a red-headed young man—who was evidently camped there, much to the detriment of his health—for those steps were cold and the weather still uncertain—jumped up as I came out, and from his clean-cut appearance and the bright smile with which he favored me I was sure he was going to sell me something. I was fairly startled at what he said.

"Can you tell me, please, if the bracelet Miss Agazziz is said to have lost last night was really lost or stolen?"

I stared at him. I felt as if I had walked under a cold shower and couldn't get my breath. A reporter; a real live reporter!

"Can you tell me if the bracelet has been found?" he questioned, seeing that I was so astounded I couldn't speak.

I was scared blue. I never had had any actual experience with a reporter, but I had enough presence of mind to realize that I ought not to give any information about something distinctly Mrs. Hazard's business, or Natalie's. The only way I could do the right thing was by keeping my mouth shut. So I just smiled pleasantly and started down the steps—a man can't keep on talking to a dumb woman. Then, instead of one, I was face to face with a crowd of newspaper men. They popped up like corn over a hot fire.

"Can you tell us if the stolen bracelet was worth fifty thousand dollars?" came at me from one of the crowd.

I caught the trick in the speech and glared. It wasn't any of their business. They were crowding me uncomfortably against the railing, and I began to get mad. I wondered at myself at being able to keep my temper so long, but I was holding my tongue between my teeth to bite off any words that tried to get out. I had determined I just wouldn't speak. Suddenly a thought struck me. Mrs. Hazard would get up in the middle of 30,000 VOICES!

And Many Are The Voices of Rushville People.

Thirty thousand voices—What a grand chorus! And that's the number of American men and women who are publicly praising Doan's Kidney Pills for relief from backache, kidney and bladder ills. They say it to friends. They tell it in the home papers. Rushville people are in this chorus. Here's a Rushville case.

S. Bebout, 404 W. First St., Rushville, Ind., says: Doan's Kidney Pills are just as represented and I am glad to recommend them. I had pains through my back and kidneys and the action of my kidneys was irregular. When I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills I did so and they soon brought relief."

Mr. Bebout is only one of many Rushville people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Bebout had the remedy backed by home testimony. 50c. all stores. the night to see a reporter. I pointed to the front door, hoping somebody would catch my meaning.
"Oh, Mrs. Hazard would see us if we could get to her," one of the crowd told me. "Would you be so kind as to tell her that time files and the afternoon papers won't wait?"
I merely tried to push my way down the steps, for Jo was holding breakfast.
"Oh, I say, Miss Codman!"
Some one actually knew my name. I almost took the end of my tongue off to keep from answering; it's so natural to answer to one's name. Then I saw the purpose of it. I was looking straight into a camera.
"Oh, please don't!" I shrieked, and I ducked my head just as the click sounded.

REGARD KNOX'S VISIT AS AN IMPERTINANCE

Japanese Resent "Dollar Doctrine" at Funeral.

Paris, Aug. 17.—In reply to a question as to the truth of the statement that the visit of Mr. Knox, the American secretary of state, to attend the mikado's funeral was resented in that country, a Japanese financier whose official mission in Paris prevents his name being given, said: "Mr. Knox's presence at the mikado's funeral is viewed by the Japanese, high and low alike, as evidence of gross bad taste. Evidently the Japanese foreign office is unable to say so, as courtesy is a primordial factor in my country. Nevertheless, we Japanese who will see him at the mikado's funeral will feel that he is in our country on business, that he is working his dollar doctrine. We regarded the mikado with veneration, and the presence of any business element at the coming sacred rite is to us an impertinence. He may assure us of America's friendship, but we do not need to be taught what we well know."

Knox Starts For Tokio.
 Washington, Aug. 17.—Secretary of State Knox started last evening for Japan at the head of a special American embassy to attend the funeral ceremonies for the late Emperor Mutsuhito. At Seattle Mr. Knox will board the armored cruiser Maryland and will arrive at Tokio Sept. 11. The funeral ceremonies, which will begin on Sept. 13, will continue for three days. The party will return to Seattle about Oct. 12.

Populace of Morocco Indifferent.
 Rabat, Morocco, Aug. 17.—Mulai Youssef has been proclaimed sultan of Morocco in succession to his brother, Mulai Haffid, who abdicated in his favor. The populace displayed complete indifference.

DAZED BY BLOW

Martinsville Minister Attacked on the Street by City Marshal.

Martinsville, Ind., Aug. 17.—As a result of feeling aroused over his action in striking the Rev. L. K. Dilts, pastor of the Baptist church, while the latter was talking to a friend in the street, City Marshal Skinner tendered his resignation to Mayor Hastings and it was accepted. Mr. Dilts says the marshal came up to him and laid his hands on his shoulder, and that when he told him to "let go and go about his business," Dilts says the marshal struck him with his mace. Mr. Dilts thinks the marshal struck him twice, but he is not certain. He was dazed by the blow, and friends assisted him to a physician's office. Later he was taken to his home, where he is still confined.

Skinner refused to make any statement as to his side of the matter. He was later arrested in his room by Sheriff Marley. A large crowd followed them to the jail. Mr. Dilts has criticized the marshal frequently, and this is supposed to have caused the trouble. Policeman Eoff has also tendered his resignation to the police because of the feeling that has been created against the officer.

Some Intensive Farming.

Hammond, Ind., Aug. 17.—An acre of unsightly ground adjoined Hammond fire station No. 4 last spring. During their spare time this summer the firemen made it into a garden spot and upon it raised 110 bushels of potatoes, 1,119 cabbages, seven bushels of sweet corn, four bushels of cucumbers, ten bushels of onions, six bushels of tomatoes, five bushels of radishes, five bushels of beans and smaller quantities of garden truck. Besides supplying their families' tables during the summer, the firemen realized $300 from the sale of the vegetables.

He Wanted Courage.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 17.—A negro named Julius Smith took a drug to give him courage and fell asleep while attempting to rob the home of W. W. Rockhill. He was betrayed by his snoring. Rockhill was awakened by the noise and found the negro asleep on the floor just outside his bedroom door.

Killed When Flaggging a Train.

North Vernon, Ind., Aug. 17.—William Cannon, a brakeman on a Baltimore & Ohio freight train, was instantly killed south of this city. He had gone back to flag a train and was killed by the oncoming train. He lived at Cochran.

Gary, Ind., Aug. 17.—John Cassidy, aged twenty-five, an employee of the United States Steel corporation, overcame by heat, fell from a crane into an open furnace, thirty feet below. His was the fourth death in a week at the plant.

Grand Circuit Trotter in John Dagler's Stable Wins at Newcastle Friday.

Clell Maple Not on Closing Day's Speed Card—In Accident Thursday.

Ruth Randall, the grand circuit trotter in John Dagler's stable which will likely be raced at the Rush county fair next week, performed the unusual stunt of coming back at the Newcastle fair yesterday, after having won a second Thursday, and winning the 2:14 trot. Rushville horsemen who saw the little trotting mare perform say that she finished first in each of the three heats with ease. The best time was in 2:18 3/4.

John Dagler also drove Theo Wilks one heat in the 2:24 trot, but drew the horse after that. Fred Dagler, who had Springline entered in the same race, did the same thing as his brother, after the first heat. It is understood they had some sort of an argument with the starter and withdrew from the race for that reason. The two brothers finished fifth and sixth respectively.

Martin Kelly, Clyde Nebro's horse, was entered in the 2:11 pace but was not raced. Florence Patchen and Nellie Gray, in Clell Maple's stable, were entered in the same race but were not raced. It is presumed here that Clell Maple did not race yesterday on account of an accident he had in the races Thursday, which was described as follows in the Newcastle Courier:

In the 2:25 pace there was a big field of nine starters and in that event the favorite, Gentry J., owned and driven by Mart Wilson, the Indiana horseman, finished second after winning the first two heats. The winner was James H. Nebro, owned and driven by Clyde Nebro of Rushville.

There were three real contenders in the 2:25 pace. In addition to James K. Nebro and Gentry J., Golden G., in the last three heats pressed the son of John R. Gentry at all stages and finished a nose behind in the third and fourth heats. In the fifth heat the mare drove to second place by a good drive by Palin down the stretch.

In the third heat of this race a thrill was caused by the collapse of the wheel of the bike behind Capell. The accident was caused by the breaking of Alberta Wilkes. She plunged into the Capell bike and kicked down a wheel. The accident caused Capell to swerve and sent the other wheel into the sulky of Clell Maple, who was driving Florence Patch, causing the second wheel to collapse. The accident caused Maple to take his mare to the outer edge of the stretch.

Both horses were permitted to start in the next heat, although out-distanced, because of the accident. Haynes, the driver of Capell was not injured.

VETERANS WILL ATTEND

Survivors of 37th Indiana to Reunite in Connersville.

All of the surviving Civil war veterans in Rush county who belonged to the thirty-seventh Indiana regiment are planning to attend the annual reunion which will be held in Connersville Tuesday and Wednesday. The first day's session will be held in the Connersville city hall and the second day's in the Fayette county court house. A request has been made that the residences and business houses in Connersville be decorated for the occasion. Among the survivors of this regiment in this county are William Davis, Harrison Levi and John Huffman.

Four claims were filed against James Mercer, administrator of the estate of Ada J. Matney, deceased, today in the circuit court. Ocea E. Williams demands $277.58; John O. Williams, $25; Elijah A. Matney, $30 and W. F. Matney, $100.

SCHOOLS COST OVER $100,000

Milroy, 3 in Carthage and 8 in Rushville.

The total paid out last year in teachers' salaries was $74,875.98, and the average for each school day paid to teachers was $478.42. Of the total $47,452.12 was paid the township teachers and $27,420.82 was paid the teachers in the city and incorporated towns. The average per school day in the townships was $323.37, in Carthage, $35.01 and in Rushville, $120.04.

During the year there were enrolled in the commissioned high schools 334 pupils, divided as follows: Milroy, 59; Carthage, 68; Rushville, 207.

Enrolled in certified high schools were 178 pupils as follows: Noble, 45; Orange, 28; Posey, 36; Walker, 28; Washington, 41.

There were 79 pupils enrolled in the non-commissioned high schools as follows: Center, 23; Jackson, 12; Rushville township, 27; Walker, 17.

There are three commissioned high schools, five certified high schools, 15 township consolidated schools, all having one teacher with the exception of those in Walker, Union and Center townships, which have two teachers.

There are 35 schools in the county having only one teacher, distributed among the townships as follows: Anderson, 3; Center, 2; Jackson, 5; Noble, 3; Orange, 3; Posey, 4; Richland, 3; Ripley, 2; Rushville, 2; Union, 6; Walker, 2, and Washington, 2.

It is an interesting thing to compare the enumeration results with the enrollment in the school corporations. The strangest thing brought out by the comparison is that there are eight more children enrolled in the schools of Jackson township than were in the township, according to the enumeration returns.

By this comparison it is deducted that there are 1135 children of school age in the county who are not attending school, there being enrolled in the county 3675 and 4810, according to the enumeration. The greatest discrepancy is in the city of Rushville. The number enrolled was 953 and the number shown by the enumerators was 1247. This shows 294 children of school age in the city are not attending school.

The following table shows the number enrolled by the school divisions and the average daily attendance during the school year:

	Total	Av. D. At.
Anderson	294	238

POISON FINALLY FATAL TO GIRL

Bertha Fuller, Age 18, of Sandusky, Succumbs From Dose of Corrosive Sublimate.

SHE TOOK IT LAST MONDAY

Despondent Over Tragic Death of Her Sweetheart Given as Cause of Suicide.

The desire to die which prompted Bertha Fuller, age 18, a despondent Sandusky girl to take corrosive sublimate on Monday, was gratified Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when her soul slipped the leash that had held it to a pain racked body for nearly a week. The end that she sought, preferring death to constant worry since the tragic killing of her sweetheart a few months ago, came, but not as quickly as she had wished, and not before she had suffered many hours of excruciating pain.

It will be recalled that she swallowed a quantity of corrosive sublimate late Monday afternoon. An hour afterwards she was found in her room in an unconscious condition. Dr. C. B. Grover of Greensburg was called to attend her and did all in his power to ease the intense suffering the drug caused. The poison had burned the throat and stomach of the victim in a frightful manner, and after he made the first examination, the physician had little hopes of her recovery.

It is believed that the self slain girl had decided to take her life after constant brooding over the death of her sweetheart, John Chandler, who was run down and killed by a freight train several weeks ago. It was known that the two were engaged to marry, and in fact the dead lover had only a few months ago purchased a house in Sandusky which was to have been the home for him and his bride. Since the young man's death the girl refused to be reconciled and brooded constantly over her troubles.

Miss Fuller is survived by a mother, stepfather, two brothers and a sister. The funeral services have not been arranged.
